

14th INTERNATIONAL MORPHOLOGY MEETING
Budapest

Workshop “Stems in Inflection and Word Formation”
Organization: Fabio Montermini, Olivier Bonami, Gilles Boyé

PROGRAM

Thursday 13 May

3:00-4:00

Mark Aronoff (Stony Brook University)

“entia non sunt multiplicanda praeter necessitatem (Occam), sed aliquando necesse est: an argument for morphological categories”

4:00-4:30

Basilio Calderone (Modyco – CNRS & Université Paris Ouest Nanterre la Défense)

“Paradigm projections in the French verb system”

4:30-5:00

Coffee break

5:00-5:30

Matthew Baerman / Scott Collier (Surrey Morphology Group)

“Stems in a database of morphological complexity”

5:30-6:00

Paula Orzechowska (The School of English, Poznań)

“Morphotactic transparency. Stems and suffixes in English and Polish inflection”

Friday 14 May

10:00-10:30

Matthew Baerman / Greville G. Corbett (Surrey Morphology Group)

“Stem alternations and multiple exponence”

10:30-11:00

Bernard Fradin / Delphine Tribout (LLF, CNRS & Université Paris 7)

“Stem space and derivation in French”

11:00-11:30

Hélène Giraudo (CLLE-ERSS, CNRS & Université de Toulouse)

Madeleine Voga (Université Paul Valéry Montpellier III)

“What distinguishes stem allomorphy? A masked priming study with French stimuli”

10:30-12:00

Coffee break

12:00-1:00

Andrew Spencer (University of Essex)

“Maximising stems”

3:00-3:30

Bhavani Saravanan (Stony Brook University)

“Stem dependency and irregular verbs in Tamil”

3:30-4:00

Jurgis Pakerys (Department of Baltic Studies, Vilnius University)

“On the intraparadigmatic allomorphy of derivational affixes (the case of Lithuanian verbs)”

4:00-4:30

Peter M. Arkadiev (Center for Balto-Slavic research, Institute of Slavic Studies, Russian Academy of Sciences)

“Stems, roots and exponents in the verbal system of Lithuanian”

contact: fabio.montermini@univ-tlse2.fr